

Liking / Disliking

Key Structures

To say what we like:

There's nothing I like more than a nice cup of tea.
I like nothing better than a nice cup of tea.
I have a passion for science fiction. I'm mad about it.
I'm really into classical music.

To say what we appreciate:

It was such fun spending the morning with Luca.
I'm keen on contemporary art and I enjoy going to galleries

To say what we dislike:

I can't stand / can't bear his voice
I'm not fond of / Not too keen on / Not crazy about ballet
I've gone off this place
I hate it now

And now a dialogue

What Do You Like About Her?

Woman: So, tell me, what do you like about your girlfriend?

Man: It's the most difficult question I've ever been asked. Where shall I start? I like her face, I love her hair, I adore her sense of humor. I'm crazy about her eyes. We're quite alike.

Woman: Is she as modest as you?

I'd Like to Eat Out

Woman: I'd like to eat out tonight.

Man: Me too. I love the Indian we went to last week.

Woman: I hated driving there. I can't stand it when you have to drive to go to a restaurant.

Man: Yes, but I really enjoyed the food. It's one of my favorite restaurants.

Woman: It was nice but wasn't mad about it. I think I've gone off that place.

Man: We could order takeaway.

Woman: I'm not very fond of that idea, especially on St. Valentine's Day.

Man: Is it today? Really?
