Grammar: BOTH

1/Both means two. We use both when we consider the two elements 'equal'.

Example : I like coffee and tea= I like both

We will use 'the two' when the two elements are considered differently.

Example: Mark is Funny, Sam is serious. The two always go to parties together.

2/ different cases for BOTH

We use both for a plural noun.

Example: Both my sisters live in London

We use both before a pronoun introduced by 'of'.

Example: Both of us are French Both you and I are French

We use both before a verb.

Example: You and I are both English learners.

We use both before two adjectives or nouns.

Example: She is both happy and sad

She likes both coffee and tea

Vocabulary: TIME

In English, when we want to ask the time, we ask:

What time is it ? (or 'what's the time?)

An hour consists of 60 minutes. Every minute consists of 60 seconds.

The usual time format is 0 to 12. (for airports, trains we use the 24-hour format)

Example: my flight takes off at 6pm /my flight takes off at 18.

When we tell the time, we do not say 'hour' or 'minute'.

1/to refer to time in the morning:

We put AM after the time.

Example: it is 6am= it is 6 in the morning

2/ to refer to time in the afternoon or at night.

We put PM after the time.

Example: it is 8PM= it is 8 at night / it is 20 (in airports , train stations and time schedules)

3/ What's the time?

a)We can tell the time the way we see it on a digital display or digital alarm clock.

06:00 = it is 6 o'clock / it is 6 / it is 6sharp

b)When there are minutes, we refer to the minute then the hour. Between the minutes and the hour, we put "PAST"

Examples:

06:04 = it is 4 PAST 6

(or we can read it: it is 'o' six 'o' four

(we pronounce the vowel 'o', we do not say zero here)

06:10= it is 10 PAST 6

(or it is 'o' six ten)

06:15= it is fifteen PAST 6 or 'it is a quarter PAST 6

(or we can read it:'it is 'o'six fifteen)

06:30= it is thirty PAST 6 or it is half PAST 6

(or we can read it:'it is ('o') six thirty)

06:45= it is forty-five PAST 6

(or we can read it:'it is sex forty-five)

c) When we are minutes away from the next hour, we can tell the time in a different way, we use the number of minutes before the time which is the next hour. Between the two, we put 'TO'.

06:45: it is fifteen TO 7 / it is a quarter TO seven

06:50 it is ten TO 7 / it is fifty past six

06:55 it is five TO 7 / it is fifty-five past six

d)Miscellaneous (Divers)

When the time on your watch is not right, we say that the watch is early or late

Dialogue:

I WANT BOTH

Wentworth: Sarah? Where are you going?

Sarah: I'm going to the new tearoom between the opera house and the shopping centre

Wentworth: No need to run in the hallways!

Sarah: I want to be there before 5!

Wentworth: Why do you want to be there before 5?

Sarah: They close at 6pm so they don't let anyone in after 5. They start tidying everything at 5.30-5.45.

Wentworth: You can go another time. They're not open only today, are they?

Sarah: I told myself I would go today. I want to eat their famously delicious waffles and ice cream. I wonder if I'll take the waffles or the ice-cream. The ice-cream or the waffles.

Wentworth: That sounds like a difficult choice. Haha... Don't torment yourself, just go there. It's not that far. Within 10 minutes you're there. No need to rush. As for your order, you will know what you want once you get there and see what is on display!

Sarah: You're right. Maybe I'll have both! Thank you for the small talk. Goodbye!

Wentworth: Goodbye and enjoy the tearoom!

Sarah: When are you leaving today?

Wentworth: My lesson finishes at 5.30 then I'm going to the gym from 6pm to 8.30.

Sarah: What a schedule! Well, I've got to go now. Have a nice day and nice conferences!

Wentworth: Thank you Sarah. Bye!
